Background

The 2020 G20 Leaders’ Statement acknowledges the importance of “supporting the multilateral trading system” in response to the economic contraction brought about by the COVID-19 pandemic.⁶⁷¹ Additionally, the G20 leaders affirm the need to promote inclusive economic growth, fostering the integration of developing and least developed countries into the international trading system.⁶⁷²

Discussions on realizing the goal of free, inclusive, non-discriminatory, transparent, predictable, and stable trade and investment can be traced back to the 2008 Washington Summit. In the face of the 2007-2008 financial crisis, G20 leaders agreed to “ensure transparency” and “restore stability” while remaining committed to free market principles.⁶⁷³ Accordingly, the G20 leaders committed to undertaking a Financial Sector Assessment Program report, which consists of a financial stability assessment and a financial development assessment, bolstering transparency and stability.⁶⁷⁴

At the 2010 Toronto Summit, G20 leaders drafted the Principles for Innovative Financial Inclusion, encouraging financial inclusion, stability, and market-based incentives conducive to a competitive economic landscape.⁶⁷⁵ Leaders renewed their commitment to “refrain from raising barriers or imposing new barriers to investment or trade in goods and services,” promoting free trade and investment.⁶⁷⁶ At the 2010 Seoul Summit, leaders delivered the Seoul Action Plan to “enhance the stability of financial markets,” and a modernized International Monetary Fund with “greater representation of dynamic emerging markets and developing countries,” encouraging fair, inclusive, and non-discriminatory international trade.⁶⁷⁷

At the 2012 Los Cabos Summit, leaders “firmly committed to open trade and investment,” underlining the significance of “an open, predictable, rules-based, and transparent” trade environment.⁶⁷⁸ At the 2013 St Petersburg Summit, leaders agreed to achieving “the open, rules-based, transparent and non-discriminatory WTO-based trading system,” and reaffirmed their support of free trade principles, extending their commitment to “removing barriers and impediments to global trade and investment” until the end of 2016.⁶⁷⁹

At the 2017 Hamburg Summit, G20 leaders recognized the importance of “trade and investment frameworks and the principle of non-discrimination,” vowing to fight “all unfair trade practices.”⁶⁸⁰ The leaders reaffirmed the “importance of transparency for predictable and mutually beneficial trade,” and recognized the unequal benefits of international trade and investment, committing to enhancing “international cooperation towards inclusive and sustainable global growth.”⁶⁸¹

At the 2019 Osaka Summit, G20 leaders first stated their commitment “to realize a free, fair, non-discriminatory, transparent, predictable and stable trade and investment environment.”⁶⁸² Additionally, they reaffirmed support for reforms to the World Trade Organization (WTO), recognizing the importance of the WTO and WTO-consistent bilateral and regional trade agreements for realizing their ideal trade and investment environments.⁶⁸³

On 29 June 2020, the WTO published Reports on G20 Trade and Investment Measures, covering mid-October 2019 to mid-May 2020. The report found that of the 154 new trade-related measures implemented by G20 members, 95 were trade-facilitating and 59 were trade-restrictive.⁶⁸⁴ The COVID-19 pandemic was identified as exacerbating the trend of G20 investment policies aimed to “safeguard national security interests against threats associated with international investment.”⁶⁸⁵

Commitment Features

In the face of an economic contraction due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the G20 members “strive to realize the goal of a free, fair, inclusive, non-discriminatory, transparent, predictable, and stable trade and investment environment.” This commitment can be divided into two parts: the first to realize the goal of a free, fair, inclusive, non-discriminatory, transparent, predictable, and stable trade environment, and the second to realize the goal of a free, fair, inclusive, non-discriminatory, transparent, predictable, and stable investment environment.

“Strive” refers “to try very hard to do something or make something happen, especially for a long time or against difficulties.”⁶⁸⁶

The term “trade” is understood to mean the exchange of goods, services, and intellectual property.⁶⁸⁷ In the context of this commitment, a “trade environment” should be understood as the international conditions in which these exchanges take place. The term “investment” is understood to mean the act of allocating funds into something to achieve a result.⁶⁸⁸ In the context of this commitment, an “investment environment” refers to the international conditions in which investment takes place. To “realize” is to “bring into concrete existence; accomplish.”⁶⁸⁹

The WTO outlines four principles that form “the foundation of the multilateral trading system.”⁶⁹⁰ First, non-discriminatory trade mandates that countries “cannot discriminate between trading partners,” and must treat local and imported goods and services equally. Second, free trade dictates that countries will gradually work towards lowering trade barriers such as tariffs and import bans or quotas, progressively liberalizing their markets. Third, predictability encourages nations to make their trade rules clear and transparent. The WTO institutes “binding” commitments, placing a ceiling on customs tariff rates, and in certain agreements requires governments to publicly disclose their practice. The WTO includes “stability” and “transparency” under this principle. Fourth, promoting fair, rules-based trading encourages “undistorted competition.” Finally, “inclusive trade” is understood to mean “all segments of society can take advantage of the opportunities that flow from trade. This means providing equal opportunities for small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs) that may already be at disadvantage, including women, Indigenous peoples, youth and other underrepresented groups.”⁶⁹¹ Together, these five principles describe trading and investment environments that are “free, fair, inclusive, non-discriminatory, transparent, predictable, and stable,” and will be used to determine the compliance of G20 members with this commitment.

A G20 member can achieve full compliance for the first part of the commitment by striving to realize a trade environment in accordance with four to five of the aforementioned principles. A G20 member will receive a score of non-compliance for the first part of the commitment if it strives to realize a trade environment in accordance with one or none of the aforementioned principles. A G20 member will receive partial compliance for the first part of the commitment if it realizes a trade environment in accordance with two to three of the aforementioned principles.

A G20 member can achieve full compliance for the second part of the commitment by striving to realize an investment environment in accordance with four to five of the aforementioned principles. A G20 member will receive a score of non-compliance for the second part of the commitment if it strives to realize an investment environment in accordance with one or none of the aforementioned principles. A G20 member will receive partial compliance for the second part of the commitment if it realizes an investment environment in accordance with two or three of the aforementioned principles.

As well, this commitment has a depth component of how strong the action taken by the G20 member is. A member can fully realize or partially realize the goal of a trade and/or investment environment in accordance with WTO principles. To achieve full compliance, a G20 member must take significant action in order to fully realize the goal of a trade and investment environment in accordance with WTO principles. Examples of significant actions that warrant full compliance include enforcing WTO principles through legislative action, initiating programs to encourage trade and investment in accordance with WTO principles, and engaging with international institutions that facilitate trade and investment. Examples of actions that warrant partial compliance include reaffirmation of the commitment in official government statements and attending meetings that discuss the international trade and investment environments.

To achieve full compliance for this commitment, G20 members must take strong action towards realizing both a trade environment and an investment environment that is free, fair, inclusive, non-discriminatory, transparent, predictable, and stable. Partial compliance will be awarded if a G20 member only takes action towards one of the commitment targets – either trade or investment. Non-compliance will be awarded if a G20 member has completed none of the aforementioned criteria.

Scoring Guidelines

-1	The G20 member has not taken action towards realizing a free, fair, inclusive, non-discriminatory, transparent, predictable or stable trade nor investment environment.
0	The G20 member has either taken action towards realizing a free, fair, inclusive, non-discriminatory, transparent, predictable and stable trade OR investment environment.
+1	The G20 member has taken strong action towards realizing the goal of a free, fair, inclusive, non-discriminatory, transparent, predictable and stable trade AND investment environment.

Brazil has partially complied with its commitment to realize the goal of a free, fair, inclusive, non-discriminatory, transparent, predictable, and stable trade and investment environment.

On 21 December 2020, the Ministry of Economy launched a new tool for sharing information on trade agreements negotiated and under negotiation by Brazil.⁷⁴¹ Foreign Trade Secretary Lucas Ferraz explained that the development of the tool was inspired by the principles of transparency and transparent governance in the agenda of trade negotiations in line with the World Trade Organization (WTO) agreement on Trade Facilitation.⁷⁴²

On 18 January 2021, the Ministry of Economy announced the launch of a new phase of the Single Foreign Trade Portal which seeks to simplify Brazil's exports and imports through a reformulation of procedures, requirements and systems applicable to external commercial transactions.⁷⁴³ These measures reduce time and costs for private actors to complete their trade operations.⁷⁴⁴

On 3 February 2021, Brazil put in an initial offer of market access to join the WTO Government Contracting Agreement, which makes public contracts open to international competition.⁷⁴⁵ Compliance with the agreement will promote reduced public spending and improvement in the quality of government goods and services and encourage Brazilian exports and foreign investment in the country.⁷⁴⁶

On 9 March 2021, Brazil and Argentina solved 49 of 54 pending issues pertaining to the trade in agriculture and livestock.⁷⁴⁷ This marks the culmination of work initiated in 2020 and the and the

On 22 April 2021, Canada attended the WTO general council meeting.⁷⁹⁵ Attendees agreed to eliminate unnecessary restrictions on exports of medical goods essential to combatting COVID-19, remain transparent about export restrictions deemed “necessary to relieve critical shortages,” and give particular considerations to least developed countries.⁷⁹⁶ Additionally, members agreed to engage with WTO trade monitoring exercises.⁷⁹⁷

Canada has partially complied with its commitment to strive to realize the goal of a free, fair, inclusive, non-discriminatory, transparent, predictable and stable trade and investment environment. Canada has taken action to strive to realize the goal of a non-discriminatory, fair, free and predictable trade environment by engaging in bilateral discussions with heads of state and international organizations. However, Canada has not taken action to strive to realize the goal of an investment environment in accordance with WTO principles.

Thus, Canada receives a score of 0.

France has fully complied with its commitment to strive to realize the goal of a free, fair, inclusive, non-discriminatory, transparent, predictable and stable trade and investment environment.

On 30 December 2020, after a call between President Emmanuel Macron, Chinese President Xi Jinping, European Commission President Ursula von der Leyen, European Council President Charles Michel, and German Chancellor Angela Merkel on behalf of the Presidency of the EU council, the EU and China have concluded the principle negotiations for a Comprehensive Agreement on Investment.⁸⁴⁵ This agreement allows for a better balance between EU and Chinese trade relations and “set[s] a high benchmark in terms of transparency, level playing field, marketing access commitments and sustainable development.”⁸⁴⁶ This agreement has yet to be ratified.⁸⁴⁷

On 23 February 2021, Minister for Europe and Foreign Affairs Jean-Yves Le Drian spoke on the telephone with Indonesian Minister of Foreign Affairs Retno Marsudi.⁸⁴⁸ Minister Le Drian reaffirmed France’s interests in strengthening the partnership between France and Indonesia, as well as within the Association of Southeast Asian Nations.⁸⁴⁹

On 1 March 2021, Minister Delegate for Foreign Trade and Economic Attractiveness, attached to the Minister for Europe and Foreign Affairs Franck Riester spoke with German Minister for the Economy and Energy Peter Altmaier via video conference.⁸⁵⁰ Ministers discussed the new trade policy strategy that was presented by the European Commission on 18 February 2021.⁸⁵¹ They also

World Trade Organization (WTO), which Merkel believes to be the “core element of rules-based global trade.”⁸⁸⁷

On 15 February 2021, Transatlantic Coordinator Peter Beyer announced that Germany wants Europe and the US to bolster transatlantic relations with a trade deal that eliminates industrial tariffs, reforms the WTO to increase pressure on China to “play by international trade rules” and that establishes a joint carbon-emission trading system for climate protection.⁸⁸⁸ Beyer also argued that the new US administration should “withdraw punitive tariffs” imposed by Former US President Donald Trump on European imports of aluminum and steel as a first step towards “rebuilding trust” between the US and the EU.⁸⁸⁹

On 24 March 2021, Minister Altmaier met with the new Director-General of the WTO Dr. Ngozi Okonjo-Iweala via video conference to discuss WTO reform and the priorities of the new Director-General.⁸⁹⁰ The talks prioritized strengthening the multilateral trading system by reforming the WTO.⁸⁹¹ Minister Altmaier claimed that the COVID-19 pandemic and changing global conditions underline the need for this reform.⁸⁹²

On 24 March 2021, Minister Altmaier met with US Trade Representative Katherine Tai to discuss the importance of the trade and investment relationship between the two countries.⁸⁹³ Minister Altmaier and Representative Tai committed to strengthening US-German cooperation on shared objectives related to unfair trade practices of large non-market economies and focussed on the two countries’ “strong interest” in resolving a long-running US-EU aircraft subsidy dispute and addressing the global excess steel and aluminum capacity.⁸⁹⁴

On 25 March 2021, Federal Minister of Finance Olaf Scholz and Minister Altmaier tasked the KfW, a government owned development bank, with the execution of the Zukunftsfonds (Future Fund).⁸⁹⁵ The Zukunftsfonds offers innovative technology start-ups better access to capital through a EUR10

Turkey has partially complied with its commitment to strive to realize the goal of a free, fair, inclusive, non-discriminatory, transparent, predictable and stable trade and investment environment. Turkey has taken action to strive to realize the goal of a non-discriminatory, free, and predictable trade environment by lowering barriers to trade and engaging in bilateral and multilateral trade agreements. However, Turkey has failed to take specific and substantial action to strive to realize the goal of an investment environment that is non-discriminatory, free, fair, predictable and inclusive.

Thus, Turkey receives a score of 0.

The resolution will not act as a protectionist measure, but would be WTO-compatible.¹²⁴³ This action furthers the goal of fair, rule-based trading amongst the EU and its trading partners.¹²⁴⁴

On 18 February 2021, the European Commission released its revised trade policy. It focuses on the openness of the EU's market both internally and externally, developing cooperative frameworks, increased multilateralism in trade and deepening trade relations with countries in the European Neighbourhood Policy, the Western Balkans and Eastern Partnership countries.¹²⁴⁵

On 19 February 2021, the EU and India “expressed hope to forge a host of bilateral cooperation arrangements with a view to boost bilateral trade” by continuing negotiations on the Bilateral Trade and Investment Agreement, in which the EU seeks greater market access for its commodities in India.¹²⁴⁶

On 26 February 2021, the EU stated it is committed to “improving access” to vaccines to countries in the European Neighbourhood Policy and beyond through COVID-19 Vaccines Global Access.¹²⁴⁷ The EU also committed to ensuring the unhindered flow of goods and services.¹²⁴⁸

On 5 March 2021, the EU and the US agreed to temporarily remove tariffs on various items including Boeing and Airbus aircrafts as well as non-aircraft products.¹²⁴⁹ The goal is to reduce tariffs on US-EU products, which is a step towards market liberalization.¹²⁵⁰

On 9 March 2021, the European Parliament revised InvestEU, a provisional agreement, which focuses on “investments in manufacturing of pharmaceuticals, medical devices and supplies.”¹²⁵¹ The agreement will also focus investments into the EU's small and medium sized enterprises which were “negatively affected by the pandemic.”¹²⁵² The agreement allows foreign investment from countries “that are members of the European Free Trade Association, acceding countries, candidates and potential candidates, countries covered by the European Neighbourhood Policy.”¹²⁵³ The goal is to increase investments into small and medium sized enterprises to help with the rebuilding of the EU's economy post COVID-19.¹²⁵⁴

On 9 March 2021, the European Parliament created a resolution to carbon leaking which includes creating a carbon price on certain EU imports from countries who are “less climate-ambitious.”¹²⁵⁵ The goal would “create a global level playing field as well as an incentive for both EU and non-EU industries to decarbonize” and invest in environmentally conscious laws.¹²⁵⁶ This will not act to further EU protectionism but will promote countries to become environmentally aware and meet climate objectives.¹²⁵⁷

On 10 March 2021, the European Parliament discussed the importance of creating trade laws which implement a ban on importing from countries who are involved with human rights or environmental breaches.¹²⁵⁸ The Parliament adopted the legislative initiative report which called for the adoption of binding due diligence EU law to hold companies accountable for harm done to human rights or the environment at any point of the value chain.¹²⁵⁹

On 11 March 2021, the European Commission reinforced their commitment to export COVID-19 vaccines, of which it is currently the largest exporter.¹²⁶⁰ Over 34 million doses have been exported to 31 different countries.¹²⁶¹ The new regulation has been set to continue until the end of June 2021.¹²⁶²

On 25 March 2021, the European Parliament defined the strategy for a new EU-Africa partnership.¹²⁶³ The expectation for the strategy is to encourage African ambitions towards a continental free trade area.¹²⁶⁴

On 28 March 2021, the European Parliament announced the conclusion of the EU-UK Trade Cooperation Agreement.¹²⁶⁵ The agreement encourages a zero quota and zero tariff arrangement “on all goods that comply with the appropriate rules of origin” and covers investment.¹²⁶⁶

On 13 April 2021, the European Parliament’s foreign affairs committee adopted a draft report with recommendations for the EU to improve relations with India.¹²⁶⁷ Recommendations have been made to advance trade, investment, effective multilateralism and “appropriate provisions regarding investors’ rights and duties.”¹²⁶⁸

On 22 April 2021, delegates from the EU attended the WTO general council meeting.¹²⁶⁹ Attendees agreed to eliminate unnecessary restrictions on exports of medical goods essential to combatting COVID-19, remain transparent about export restrictions deemed “necessary to relieve critical shortages,” and give particular considerations to least developed countries.¹²⁷⁰ Additionally, members agreed to engage with WTO trade monitoring exercises.¹²⁷¹

The EU has fully complied with its commitment to strive to realize the goal of a free, fair, inclusive, non-discriminatory, transparent, predictable and stable trade and investment environment. The EU has taken action to strive to realize the goal of a fair, free and predictable trade environment by actively lowering barriers to trade and legislating rules-based trading. Additionally, the EU has taken action to strive to realize the goal of a non-discriminatory, fair, free, predictable and inclusive investment environment by creating investment incentives with consideration for SMEs impacted by COVID-19.

Thus, the European Union receives a score of +1.
